Dear Colleague,

As a past CEO and founder of one of the first vendor credentialing companies in the US, VeriRep now Symplr, I truly understand the value and significance of credentialing and screening all vendors and contractors entering hospitals today. One of the most important deliverables we did at VeriRep was making sure every vendor was background checked and their credentials were verified. For those reasons, I selected to partner with Green Security along with the fact that they have a comprehensive program that can do much more than credentialing for vendors including patient visitor management, employee background and sanction checks, and their technology is among the best.

Green Security has been a valued partner with TriHealth for the past year. The great support we receive from Green Security's information services and development team is unprecedented. This should be the standard for any vendor credentialing provider.

Sincerely,
